Due to changes in workload and the Commission's continual effort to streamline wherever practical and appropriate, the Commission could reduce its expenditures. To carry out the Commission's core mission, it has become necessary to expend dollars for things like mission critical travel, supplies, equipment, etc. A reduction here would require the Commission to reduce these expenses wherever possible. This could have an adverse impact on the overall budget and may require adjustments in process or the manner in which work is performed.

Administrative support is integral to the Commission's viability. There are many functions performed to support the administrative requirements of the Commission. For example, there are daily budgeting and accounting responsibilities (both internally and externally), facility maintenance and personnel matters, to name a few. The PSC regularly evaluates its workforce and any current trends to streamline and recognize efficiencies. If necessary, the PSC would reduce the administrative staff. Because the work associated with these positions would not be eliminated those functions would have to be absorbed by other staff. That would require additional training, adjustments to workflow, and could have an adverse impact on efficiency.

Section 366.015, Florida Statutes, directs the PSC to maintain liaison with other appropriate state and federal agencies whose policy decisions and rulemaking authority affect those utilities over which the Commission has primary regulatory jurisdiction. This provision requires staff to monitor and analyze federal legislation in Congress, and the activities at agencies such as the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the Federal Communications Commission, and the Florida Department of Environmental Protection. Significant federal legislation and agency activity routinely necessitates the preparation and submission of comments for the PSC's consideration. These activities can be prioritized to those matters most critical. Reduction in these activities would limit the PSC's ability to ensure policy and regulatory modifications do not negatively impact Florida utilities and consumers.

Section 367.081(4) F.S. allows water and wastewater utilities to increase rates as a matter of right to reflect increases in major operating costs by an indexed amount established annually by the Commission. For utilities that receive all or a portion of their service from a governmental authority, or from another regulated utility, the statute allows the utility to pass-through increases in the cost of service supplied by the other utility since these cost increases have been approved by a regulating authority and are beyond the utilities' control. Money collected pursuant to these increases is subject to refund for a period of 15 months after the Annual Report is filed. Eliminating staff review could result in a delayed detection of incorrect rates beyond the 15 month timeframe allowed for refund.

The Annual Access and Toll Report is a compilation of the current access rates of the Incumbent Local Exchange Companies (ILECs). Access charges are the charges long distance companies pay for the origination, transport and termination of a call. This report compares what ILECs charge other carriers for a typical consumer long distance call. This is currently the only source where Florida ILEC access charges can be viewed on a comparative basis. The progress on bill and keep as mandated by the Federal Communications Commission will be difficult to monitor without the report.

The Annual Status of Competition in the Telecommunications Industry contains information on the level of competition in Florida and provides a perspective of the telecommunications market with an emphasis on wire line competition. The data available from carriers is limited since the PSC only has authority to request data from the wire line local providers. Other than wire line data, the findings in the report are based upon literature review and third party sources. Elimination of this report would eliminate a resource for policymakers to use in determining what, if any, issues need to be remedied in the telecommunications market. Eliminating this report would require repeal of 364.386 F.S.

The Annual Report on the Efforts of the Florida Public Service Commission to Reduce the Regulatory Assessment Fee for the Telecommunications Companies is a report that requires the Public Service Commission to describe the efforts made to reduce the regulatory assessment for telecommunications companies and include detail on the regulatory activities that are no longer required and those activities that are still required with the associated costs. This requirement may have been necessary in 2011 when the statutory framework was changed extensively for telecommunications, but since that time statutory requirements have remained largely unchanged. The PSC continues to streamline telecommunications processes and reduce staff when possible. Eliminating this report would require repeal of 364.336(3) F.S.

Section 366.015, Florida Statutes, directs the PSC to maintain liaison with other appropriate state and federal agencies whose policy decisions and rulemaking authority affect those utilities over which the Commission has primary regulatory jurisdiction. This provision requires staff to monitor and analyze federal legislation in Congress, and the activities at agencies such as the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the Federal Communications Commission, and the Florida Department of Environmental Protection. Significant federal legislation and agency activity routinely necessitates the preparation and submission of comments for the PSC's consideration. These activities can be prioritized to those matters most critical. Reduction in these activities would limit the PSC's ability to ensure policy and regulatory modifications do not negatively impact Florida utilities and consumers.

Water, wastewater, and electric service territory and system maps are filed and stored in hard copy format. Filing and maintenance of these various size maps is cumbersome and time consuming. By converting the existing inventory of maps to digital images and requiring all future submissions to be in electronic format, the Commission could create a searchable data base of maps. Once operational, maintenance of the records would be more efficient allowing faster and more accurate access to and review of needed maps. The response time for records requests would be much faster. Once completed the conversion to electronic maps may allow a reduction in staff.

Chapter 366.04 F.S. gives the Commission limited jurisdiction over the rate structure but not the actual rates of approximately 51 municipal and cooperative utilities. All changes to electric service tariffs for these utilities are filed with the Commission, reviewed by staff, and in most cases administratively approved. Staff currently reviews each filing to ensure that the tariff change 1) does not contain new pricing concepts 2) is cost based and 3) does not constitute a change in rate structure. To reduce the amount of time devoted to this review, the Commission could eliminate the standard that the tariff be cost based and not review tariffs that contain a new pricing concept. This process would not change the Commission's authority over the rate structure of municipals and cooperative utilities. Any affected customers could require relief from non-cost based or discriminatory rates. The Commission is in the process of scanning all tariffs to electronic format, thereby reducing staff support needed to physically process and handle tariffs. These are still the labor intensive parts of the review and frequently entail issuing data requests to the utility, analyzing the cost accounting basis of the proposed tariff change and assessing the cost shift to other customer classes for a new pricing concept. Moving to a streamlined approach for processing municipal and cooperative utility tariffs could shift the responsibility of identifying non-compliant rate structures to the affected customers.

Pay telephones in Florida have declined drastically over the last decade. In 1996, there were over 1000 pay telephone service providers in Florida. At the end of 2013, there were 73 pay telephone service providers certificated with the Commission. The majority of the pay telephone service providers are small operations or are pay telephone service providers for the prison systems. Wireless telecommunications has greatly diminished the need for pay telephone service providers. The PSC currently has limited authority over pay telephone service providers and receives very few complaints about pay telephone service. The pay telephone service offered in prisons and jails is done by contract and is not subject to PSC jurisdiction. Section 364.3375, Florida Statutes, will need to be repealed to eliminate the remaining PSC's jurisdiction over pay telephone service providers.

Section 367.072, F.S., creates a process for customers of a water utility subject to PSC jurisdiction to petition for revocation of a utility's operating certificate when experiencing quality of water service issues. Section 367.0812, F.S. requires the PSC to take secondary water quality standards into consideration when setting rates for a water utility.

Reduction in funding staff resources for these activities would restrict PSC's ability to effectively implement the provisions of Sections 367.072, and 367.0812 F.S., particularly if multiple customer petitions were submitted to the PSC. Responsibilities would have to be absorbed by other staff.

Due to changes in workload and the Commission's continual effort to streamline wherever practical and appropriate, the Commission could reduce its expenditures. To carry out the Commission's core mission, it has become necessary to expend dollars for things like mission critical travel, supplies, equipment, etc. A reduction here would require the Commission to reduce these expenses wherever possible. This could have an adverse impact on the overall budget and may require adjustments in process or the manner in which work is performed.

Reducing the number of field office staff would require the remaining field office and Tallahassee headquarters staff to absorb more duties and responsibilities and increase their travel to accomplish the necessary company audits. These changes may have a negative impact on the quality and efficiency of the audit program.

These changes may have a negative impact on quality and efficiency. By creating greater efficiencies within this budget entity a senior level manager could also be eliminated. AGENCY ISSUE NARRATIVE:

SCH VIIIIB-2 NARR 15-16 NARRATIVE: IT COMPONENT? NO
 Priority #8

Due to changes in workload and the Commission's continual effort to streamline wherever practical and appropriate, the Commission could reduce its expenditures. To carry out the Commission's core mission, it has become necessary to expend dollars for things like mission critical travel, supplies, equipment, etc. A reduction here would require the Commission to reduce these expenses wherever possible. This could have an adverse impact on the overall budget and may require adjustments in process or the manner in which work is performed.
