The Department of State submits a proposal to relocate the Division of Corporations from the Clifton Building (Koger Center) to the offices currently under lease at the Northwood Centre. This is a many tiered proposal that results in a reduction of space occupied by Corporations by using properties that the Department owns and an overall savings of $740,988 to General Revenue.

The Department of Management Services is currently under negotiations with the Koger Center and anticipates an answer on this in September/October 2011.

This move relocates the Division of Cultural Affairs and the Directors Office of the Division of Historical Resources from the R.A. Gray Building to the Historic properties managed by the Department. This includes the Governor Martin House, The Brokaw-McDougall House and Mission San Luis. Once these moves have taken place, the Bureau of Information Services at the Northwood Centre will relocate to the Gray Building. This will place all units of the Division of Administrative Services under one roof.

Once the Northwood move has taken place, the Division of Corporations will relocate to the Northwood Centre.

The proposal also includes relocating the Archaeological and Historical Artifact Collection that is housed at the Northwood Centre to space that is currently owned at Mission San Luis. This will result in an annual reduction of $419,824 in rent paid from Conservation and Recreation Lands (CARL) revenue in the Grants and Donations Trust Fund to the Northwood Centre. This proposal is in conjunction with current tenant/broker negotiations that are ongoing through the Department of Management Services.
